(International News Service)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 16.—
Death today had cut short the career of Milton Sills, widely known stage and motion picture actor.

Sills, for years noted for his realistic portrayal of virile types, succumbed to a heart attack on the tennis court of his home in Brentwood Heights late yesterday.

Shortly after 5 o'clock, the actor, accompanied by his wife, Doris Kenyon, herself a featured film player, and his daughter Dorothy, had gone to the court for a few sets of tennis.
It was to have been not so much of a game as it was a constitutional for Sills. He was convalescing from a nervous and physical breakdown.

After the game had proceeded for about thirty minutes Sills slumped slowly to the ground without a word.
Servants carried him into the house and physicians were summoned. The famous actor was dead when they arrived.

International Idol
Sills had not regained consciousness
after his collapse.

Squared-jawed, six feet, 1 1/2 inches in height with level gray eyes and brown hair, Sills had become somewhat of an international idol through his heroic characterizations on the screen. He was known as a leader both on and off the screen. For years he had taken part in various movements for the improvement of the films. At

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa Newc has run across quite a number of New Castle residents who raise fancy pheasants for a hobby.
Noticed that Andrew Bishop has a pen of them at the rear of his Epworth street home. There are some little ones, some middle sized ones and some large, beautiful ones.

New Epworth M. E. church at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue is becoming beautiful and Pa Newc don't mean maybe. However, it doesn't seem to be going up fast enough to suit Pa Newc.

Today is the second day for registration of voters in New Castle. You can still register tonight, if you haven't attended to that matter during the day. Don't put off registration until the last day.

Another thoroughfare in the New Castle vicinity that needs widening is the macadam stretch of roadway just outside of New Castle at the top of State street hill. That highway seems unusually narrow for traffic.

Gesture of council to pass legislation providing for paving of streets in front of a number of public schools in addition to the George Washington high school is quite interesting. But why not? And why not pay for the city's share of this paving with funds received from the sale of the municipal conduit? We know of no better way to reinvest the people's money than in improving streets about the city.

CHICAGO POLICE ARE CHECKING UP

TED GEISINGER

(International News Service)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16.—Held in custody on a charge of murder, a man believed to be Ted Geisinger, suspected slayer of Alfred "Lingle" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was in a detective bureau cell here today awaiting identification by Chicago authorities.

With the man believed to be Geis-king was a companion whom authorities have identified as his brother Alex, who is sought in Indiana for a series of crimes. The suspects gave their names as Emerald and Stanley Harris.

The pair were arrested on suspicion when they arrived in Louisville in a roadster bearing Georgia license plates.

Inquiry in Chicago revealed that an Emerald Harris had operated a saloon
there until the assassination of Lingle.
The saloon was abruptly closed when Lingle was killed and its owner vanished.

The arrest of the supposed Geis-king and his brother led to the arrest of two women, one of them identified as Geisinger's bride. She gave her name as Mrs. Emerald Harris. They were taken in custody at a river camp and were released before police identified the men in connection with the Lingle murder.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—The third of the international yacht races between the defender Enterprise and the challenger Shamrock V was officially called off today on account of the heavy fog and generally unfavorable weather.

The race committee conferred through the morning and finally de-

of wind precluded any contest today.
The visibility on the ocean course was limited to a little more than a mile.

The race committee instructed all boats at the starting line to return to port. The fog was so dense that two large yachts collided in the harbor, but were only slightly damaged.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 16.—Two small children were burned to death early today and their father severely burned in rescuing two others from their flaming home south of this city.
The dead are: Jeanette Martin, 6;
and David Martin, 4.

The father of the dead children,
Clarence Martin, 32, carried Juanita, home. Both he and Juanita were reported badly burned.

Martin, whose wife was visiting re-

police said they learned. He awoke

Dashing into a bedroom he rescued

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—
Five million voters in New York, Wisconsin and Massachusetts trooped to the polls today in the last of the state primaries to choose party candidates for the major battles of November's elections.

A Republican state convention in Connecticut and a Democratic state conclave in Delaware added diversity to the day's political developments but the senatorial race in Massachusetts held the center of interest.
Prohibition was the rampant issue in the old Bay State and in Delaware, too, but out in Wisconsin the La Follette family battled again on their favorite issue of insurgency.

Attracts Interest
The Massachusetts contests attracted national interest because William Butler, friend of former President Coolidge and former Republican National chairman, sought the Republican senatorial nomination. Running as a dry, Butler was opposed by Eben
S. Draper, former state senator, who is wet, and Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis,

George M. Gibson Dies In Cleveland

Well Known Croton Resident Passes Away Monday Night

SERIOUSLY ILL FOR SEVERAL MONTHS

GEORGE M. GIBSON

Following an illness of a number of weeks, George M. Gibson, age 64, widely known and respected citizen of Croton avenue, passed away in the Cleveland Clinic hospital Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Except for his close friends little was known of Mr. Gibson's condition. Of a cheerful disposition, he made but little complaint, but continuing to grow worse he went to Cleveland for observation. It was found necessary to operate, but this was of no avail.

Active in Civic Work
For many years Mr. Gibson had been prominent in civic work and especially in affairs concerning Croton. For 18 years he was president of the Croton Volunteer Firemen and had been president of the official board of the Croton Methodist Episcopal church, of which he was a member for 40 years. He was also a member of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

For 35 years he conducted a grocery business in Croton and also had a barber shop. Some six years ago he sold out his grocery business and devoted his entire time to his barber business.

In 1889 he was married to Miss Ida
Chapman, who preceded him in death in May, 1928. Ten months ago he was again married to Jennie Kennedy, who survives him.

Surviving him also are two daugh-

NEW CASTLE YOUTH ROBBED OF $15,000 WORTH OF JEWELS

Chas. Knobloch Says Hold-up
Pair Took Valuable
Gems From Him

Robbery Episode Occurs Near Coitsville—Telephone
Girls To Rescue

Held up at the point of a gun, beaten and kicked into insensitivity by two men,
Charles Knobloch of 105 Vine street, a well known young man of this city reports he was robbed of $15,000.00
worth of jewelry this morning at one A. M., at a point estimated to be a mile west of the state line on the Youngstown road.

The jewelry he says consisted of two large, matched, emerald rings, worth about $4500.00 each, and a diamond ring, about seven carats in size and worth about $6000.00.

After beating and kicking Mr.
Knobloch into insensibility, stripping some of his clothing from him and robbing him of his jewelry, the hold-up men stuffed his mouth full of limestone gravel and left him lying in the rain along the highway. A few minutes later, seven telephone girls of the New Castle station came by and seeing him in the road unconscious, summoned help.

Trailed Him From Niles
"I believe I had been trailed from Niles, O.," said Mr. Knobloch today in describing the holdup. "I had been in Elyria, O., over the week end, and was on my way home. In Niles I made a stop and again in Youngstown. It is my opinion that the rob-

Registration Polls Are Open

Today Is Second Chance To Register For Fall
Election

Once again there seems to be an apathetic air concerning registration.
With one day already past and today the second day for registration for the November election, the citizens of New Castle seem to be lethargic over qualifying to vote.

The registration polls are open from 4 this afternoon until 10 tonight and in order to vote on November 4 every citizen in the city must register. Previous registration means nothing.
To register it is necessary to have either a county or state tax receipt for this year or for 1929. City tax receipts are useless for registration purposes.

Following today there will be but one day left to register, October 4.
Those who fail to register on or before that day will be able to use nothing but their moral support in the election and the election boards never count this.

LaFollette Faces Test Today, Voters In Wisconsin Ballot

Voters Of Wisconsin Must Choose Between Governor
Kohler And LaFollette

(International News Service)
MADISON, Wis., Sept. 16.—Voters of Wisconsin marched to the polls today to choose between Gov. Walter J.
Kohler, millionaire manufacturer, and Philip LaFollette, "Progressive" faction leader, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Results of the balloting will reflect upon the Hoover administration, for the Kohler forces have sought to realign Wisconsin Republicans with the national party while the LaFollette cohorts have bitterly assailed the president.

Today's vote is expected to equal that of the 1928 presidential election, when the insurgents made a strenuous but unsuccessful attempt to win the state for Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Four Are Burned To Death In Home

Three Children And Woman
Die In Flames As Home
Burns In Virginia

(International News Service)
WARRENTON, Va., Sept. 16.—Four persons were burned to death and another probably fatally injured in a fire which swept the home of Mrs.
J. M. Wells near here today.

Three of the Wells children, aged 5, 7 and 9 years, died in the flames, and a Mrs. Hall, of North Carolina, an aunt of Mrs. Wells, also perished.
The children, George, Francis and John Stewart Wells, were asleep on the second floor when an oil stove exploded in the kitchen, setting fire to the house. Another child leaped from a second-floor window and escaped.

It was learned that Mrs. Wells had arisen early to prepare breakfast before setting out with her family and
Mrs. Hall for a trip to North Carolina.
As she was lighting the oil stove it exploded, burning her so severely that she was unable to warn the children.
Mrs. Wells was rushed to a hospital, where physicians say she has a slight chance of recovery.

ARTHUR MOMETER

Just a week or so ago, so it seems,
we still had snow, and the year was only starting on its way, yet the summer's here and gone, and we now are nearly on, early autumn, for it's seventy eight today. All those days and nights of heat that succeeded snow and sleet, slipped around with speed that left us goggle eyed, but the time of year is nigh when the fields are brown and dry, and the wild ducks pass us, flying high and wide. Just a minute more or less and the winter's here I guess with its chilly winds and snow that tries your soul. Time to lay in winter clothes, woolen underthings and hose and a load or two of steam producing coal.

Crime Never Pays

EUCLID AVENUE PAVING—ANOTHER FACTOR

NEW CASTLE citizens are watching with undisguised interest the maneuvering of the two city bodies with regard to paving of Euclid avenue at the George Washington junior high school.

The fact remains that the George Washington Junior high school is a magnificent plant, it is there for all time, and there is no good discussing the past. The thing that is up for action at this day and date is speedily providing a paved thoroughfare to the school.

While the matter of paving of Euclid avenue is being discussed, there should be some arrangement entered into with Neshannock township whereby the one block of North Mercer street extending from Sheridan avenue to Euclid avenue is also paved. Half of this street is in the city and half is in the township. This one block needs to be paved to make a connection all the way around, even if Euclid avenue is paved.

It would be only a half way job if Euclid avenue was paved in front of the school house, and this connecting strip to North Mercer street left unpaved.

COURAGE THAT WILL BE REWARDED

The president of the Pennsylvania railroad system, Eliza Lee, estimates that the railroads of this country are spending a billion dollars in improving their facilities, confident that economic recovery in the future will justify the expenditure now. To many business men today that announcement will carry the note of great daring.

That is the measure of their shortsightedness, their timidity and, above all, what the psychologists call their suggestibility. Any one with intelligence enough to direct any business enterprise must know, as Mr. Lee knows, that the slump cannot last much longer declares the Chicago Daily Tribune. There are signs already of its passing. There have been depressions in the past far more serious than the one which we have just experienced and they have been followed always and inevitably by periods of expansion and increased profits.

Always the men who thought for themselves and dared to act on their independent judgment have profited by buying their capital improvements when prices were depressed, thus assuring a minimum overhead against future production. And always 99 per cent of those who waited for the bottom of the market, whether of goods or securities, waited too long. That is what has happened over and over again in the past and what is happening today.

The men who will wield influence and power in business ten or fifteen years from now are the men who today are not running with the pack.

FORESTS FOR WATERSHEDS

Looking to forest preservation and reproduction with a view to providing supplies of lumber and timber for future generations is remarked by those who study the situation as but one of the many reasons for conservation and reforestation. That the trees are necessary in a great part of the country where they have always been, until swept away in the rush to make fortunes through ruthless cutting and wasting was emphasized by Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, participating in the forestry conference held some little time ago.

Mr. Pack brought into view a point that was not greatly stressed in some previous meetings; yet vitally impressive. "How many realize that the most important product of the forest is water?" he asked. "Cities are spending millions and going far to find water. We turn the faucet for water, but give little thought to where it comes from. In history we read of the treks of tribes in search of grass; long journeys seeking new pastures and water. What a commentary on our vaunted civilization if some day those who follow should be forced to migrate for water because those before them had turned this great country into a desert by denuding the land of trees!" Reference was made to the gift of millions of forestry primers to American schools in the hope that the children may learn of the value of the forests. The primers indicate the way that the forests affect civilization and existence.

In suggesting that no one section could destroy its trees without seriously affecting other sections of this country, Mr. Pack said: "Rain in West Virginia affects the water supply of the Nation's Capital; rain in Montana affects the flow of rivers in Louisiana. Reservoirs which supply the irrigation ditches are filled by water from mountain streams. Forest-clad mountains store the water. There is a direct relation between the rainfall and forests, and perhaps the drought season will bring this forcibly to mind. Millions of acres of idle land should be put to work growing trees for many reasons, one of which is water."

BUS ROUTES TO KNOWLEDGE

During the last school year Pennsylvania spent more than $2,600,000 to equalize educational opportunities in rural districts, an amount exceeded only in Ohio and Indiana. Aside from nearly $650,000 for helping high school students chiefly in payment of tuition for residents in districts not supporting a high school, the remainder was disbursed for transportation, the commonwealth providing slightly more than half, while the districts supplied the rest.

Transportation falls into three classes: for pupils who live more than two miles from the nearest building, about 15 per cent of the total outlay for conveyance; for pupils to go elsewhere after their one-room schools had been closed, about 20 per cent, and for pupils from former single-room buildings to attend one of the 600 consolidated schools, about 65 per cent. The state now orders the discontinuance of classes where the average of daily attendance is less than ten students.

In a greater degree than ever before the best equipment is available to the remotest hamlet. The isolated school is passing with class of heterogeneous ages imperfectly taught by an ill-prepared instructor amid the distractions of discipline that only the old-fashioned master thoroughly appreciates. In an age of specialization each child is reaping the advantage of specialized instruction. No longer does he plod the weary miles, often formerly through snow drifts. Instead, he rides. With pleasant surroundings he tastes the academic serenity which ought to be conducive to scholarly effort. The royal road to knowledge has become almost literally a reality.

The reckless driver is a criminal and the careless pedestrian is his accomplice.

No one can put a hat on your head and make it feel as if you put it there yourself.

How can the highways be made safe for speeders if the depression continues filling them with pedestrians?

Flying From Asia.
Strange Church Group.
12 Billion Slaves At Work.
Eternal Peace, $625.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Americans watched carefully the attempt of Lieut. Harold Gatty to hop the Pacific from Japan to Tacoma. Japan watched the attempt even more closely.

If present day airplanes make the flight possible Japan will like to know it and have us know it. Our government lacks the energy to protect itself in the air with a fleet capable of crossing any ocean. The knowledge that Asia could do it might make us more polite and Japan feels that our immigration laws show lack of international courtesy.

This will interest every clergyman in the land and cause much controversy. A magnificent new church is building on Riverside drive, New York, for the very brilliant Dr. F. O. Dickson, which includes John D. Rockefeller, Jr., largest contributor to the church.

On the tympanum of the church door will be displayed symbolical groups of figures, including Christ, some angels and Prof. Albert Einstein, of relativity fame.

There will be other "private citizens" shown with the angels, but none now living, except Einstein. Ralph Waldo Emerson will be there, the only American. Hippocrates, Archimedes, Euclid, Galileo, Newton, Darwin, Pasteur, Faraday are some of the others. In such company Darwin surely will stimulate discussion.

The grouping is based on Matthew, twenty-third chapter, seventh verse, which describes Christ, looking down on Jerusalem, saying:

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto her." Biblical prophets are in the group, while Darwin and other scientists, presumably, represent modern prophecy.

Tennessee, which recently tried and convicted Darwin, will be agitated.

There is something appropriate in choosing Einstein as the only living man in a group that includes Christ. (Continued On Page Five)

A COMMONER TALKS

To hammer always at a bolted door;
To tread a path that nowhere seems to lead;
To be denied the goal you struggle for;
To be the slave that never can be freed.

To have the wish for better things and yet
Always the golden chance to be denied;
To wear a number managers forget;
To pass their rooms, but never get inside.

I wonder if you know how hard it seems
Never to find that step on which men rise;
To see your neighbor realize his dreams
And lack the chance your own to realize.

Too soon, too late, or scarcely good enough
Into this world, where some succeed, I came,
Wanting the best, yet doomed to common stuff,
Having no merit thousands cannot claim.

I lack that subtle something of the hands
Or eyes or brain by which men triumph gain,
Good work I do, but better fame demands
And so a slave to duty I remain.

The Kudos Seeker.

To be slapped on the back and called a good fellow is the highest desire you have in life.

To gain this, your conception of popularity, you feel that you must spend money freely and be in for anything proposed.

Often you go beyond your means and take chances with your reputation in order to fulfill requirements of the role you wish to fill.

It is not unusual to wish to be well thought of.

Man likes to have friends but some individuals are willing to pay too dear a price for friends and those who can be bought are not the most desirable kind.

When you feel that you must do what you know you should not do to gain or hold friends you are being unfair to yourself and to others most interested in you.

Real friends don't require any such sacrifice on your part.

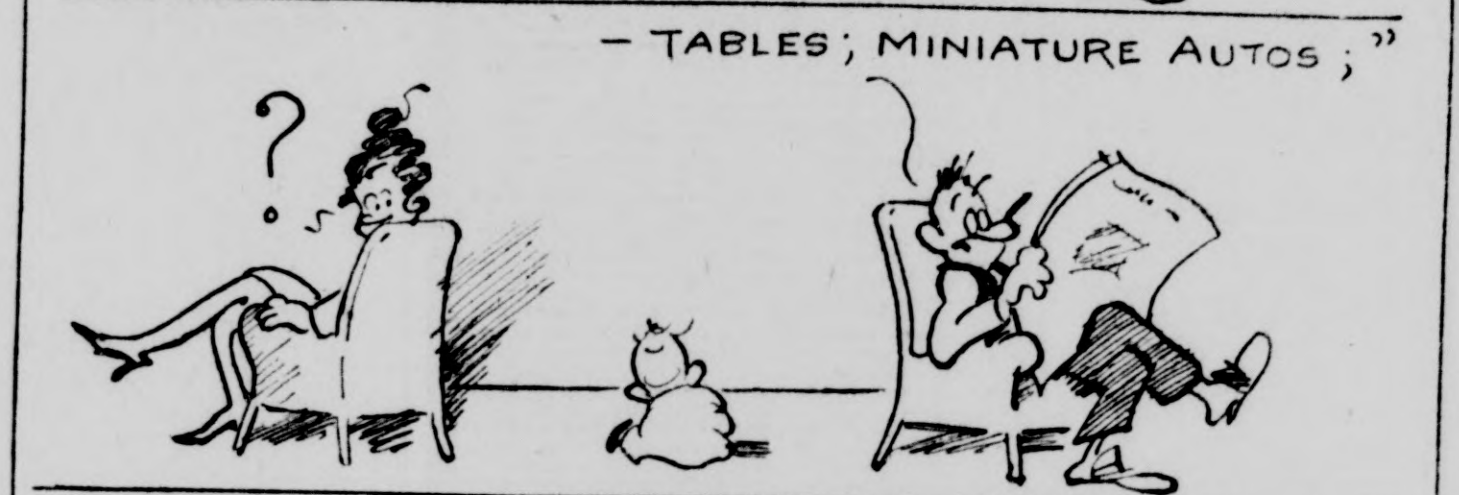

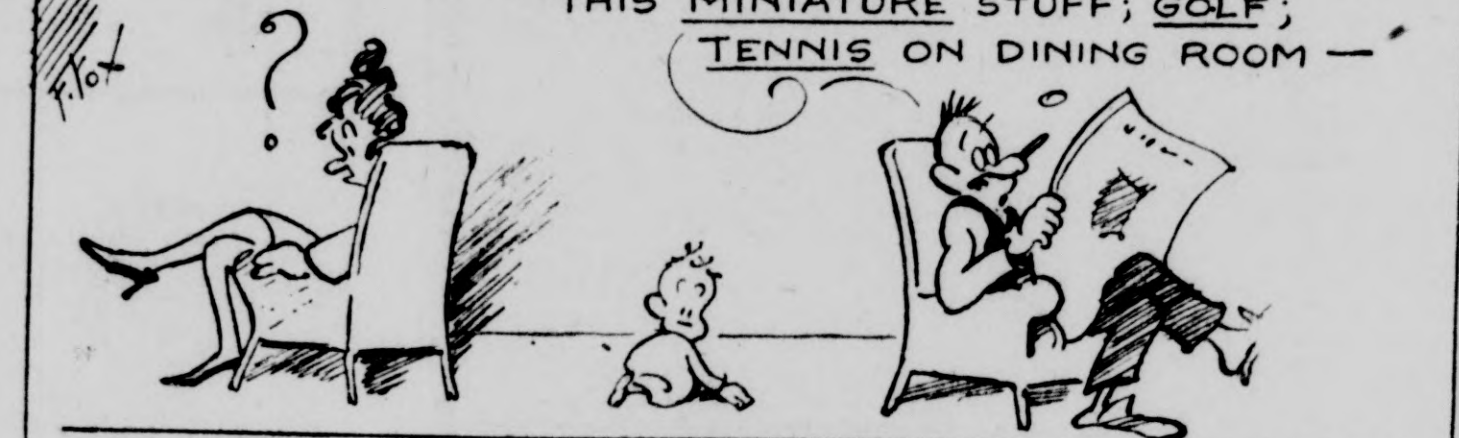

The crowd that drops you because you will not exceed what you can afford to spend and because you will not engage in things you know you should not do are not worth cultivating as friends.

As a matter of fact the man who has a mind of his own and acts according to good judgment is always the man most highly respected.

No one like a weak individual.

PALS

The late Chauncey M. Depew was fond of telling stories on himself. On one of his last birthdays, which had become occasions of ceremony, he told this one:

"I feel as Methuselah must have when one of the beauties of his court congratulated him on his 960th birthday, saying, 'You don't look a day over 930?'"

This also on himself:

"One day I was stopped in the street by a lady who asked if her aged father might come in and visit me. 'He is nearly as old as you,' said. 'He is feeble-minded, but I know he would enjoy talking to you.'"

More Faces Drop Than Are Lifted.

What does the recommendation of a grand jury amount to when it comes to recommending a new court house or making the old one so it will not be a menace to the all priceless records of the county? Grand juries for twenty-five years have recommended a new court house, but it has fallen on deaf and dumb ears, mostly dumb. Why not elect a set of county commissioners who will do the things needed? That's the solution.

Dear Sir: Don't kick on receiving this; there's the waste basket, and, but if a man tries to get horsepower out of a donkey engine and the thing turns mulish, has he any kick coming if it kicks? And who gets the kick coming, and where, if any? No, sir, I didn't find this in a questionnaire. P. P.

Life's Little Agonies

There's a girl in this city, the flapper daughter of parents well over sixty, who likes modern things. The furniture in their home is nice, tastefully arranged but old fashioned. The girl bemoaning this fact one day sawed the top off the sideboard, removing the mirror that might be converted into a make-shift buffet. The old fashioned bed posts next attracted her attention, but before applying the saw to them she thought it best to interview her father.

"Think I'll saw off the bedposts upstairs," the daughter told her father, "then the bed will look more up-to-date. What say?"

"What say?" responded the old man with a shrug of his broad shoulders. "I'll say you won't. You bobbed your hair, and you've bobbed the sideboard, but I'll be hanged if I'm going to let you bob the bedposts or anything else around the house. So there!"

Some people are in favor of having a law that would permit each state to control the sale of liquor. Our mind goes back some years when Lawrence county was put dry and a new town sprung up almost overnight on the Pennsylvania line and it was called Lovellville. People were a path to that place and Youngstown and not the only bought their booze but about everything else they needed. It cost Lawrence county thousands of dollars but it made a barrel of money for the street car company and the brewers and distillers. There was no talk of abandoning the street cars in those fine days. Those of us who were here then want to see no more of that kind of stuff pulled off.

Coste And Bellonte Flight Marks Man's Progress In Air

Their Westward Flight Over Atlantic Supplements Long Voyage Of Lindbergh, But Task Is Still Rated As One For Heroic Figures

Coste and Bellonte, by making the westward flight from France to New York gain a place in the aviation world beside Lindbergh. Their accuracy in methods of navigation is declared to have offered a notable illustration of the progress of aviation, since their trip was undertaken in the face of greater difficulties than are met on the eastward trip. Public opinion still feels that ocean flying is limited to the province of the great airman, and holds regular service unlikely for some time.

"They stand forth as men of great achievement," says the ALBANY EVENING NEWS. "They have accomplished the most difficult and most dangerous of all flights. They are heroic figures who won where other heroic men failed. They have brought honor to France, which rejoices now, and America rejoices with it as it remembers Nungesser and Gali." "We acclaim two heroes, two achievers, without indulging in fantastic dreams that man has actually conquered the air and that westward crossing is safe." The HELENA MONTANA RECORD-HERALD calls it "a most notable achievement."

"Coste, who has a southern Atlantic crossing to his credit, as well as many other long-distance flying feats, remarks the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, is deserving of all applause for his daring jump through the swirling mists along the great circle route—the reverse, roughly, of the course taken by Col. Lindbergh. It proves that the non-stop crossing on that route is not an impossibility. In recording its impression of the flight the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL pays the tribute: 'About the Coste flight, from the beginning, there was the air of assurance, of the certainty that attaches to the departure of a passenger train out of our local station and its arrival at a given time in some other city. This air of assurance was given by the aviator himself.' The ST. LOUIS TIMES SERVES that 'the near-impossible converted into the possible by preparedness.'"

"The flight proves," according to the LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS EMERALD, "that airplanes are again the North Atlantic—when the weather is favorable—thence that must mean that some day regular lines will be established. But it was not of such things that the great crowds which greeted those two Frenchmen in New York were thinking. Nor were the fellow citizens of those gallant airmen, who staged a great demonstration in Paris, counting their commercial worth of their feat. Men always have been, and a way will be hero winners, and nothing more than a spectacular adventure is needed to set such emotion. The world is better for such explosions of delight. They bring a bit of happiness into a drab existence. They make us forget for a moment that men can hate. In this particular instance, they turn our minds from the dollar mark to the 'Question Mark' and that means much."

Balancing the fact that Lindbergh flew alone against the greater difficulties of the westward flight, the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS points to "three years of improvements in airplanes," and adds: "All of which is to say that the flight these brave men are making is the next great step—the founding of trans-Atlantic lines. They will come, as surely as these pioneers have hidden their steeds of the skies to triumph."

"Both flights, Lindy to Paris, and the Frenchmen from Paris to New York, demonstrate that ocean flying can be successfully negotiated," as viewed by the NEW CASTLE NEWS, "when done by fliers who are sufficiently trained for the task, understand the flying conditions, understand their planes and have at least a good break with the weather." The JAMESVILLE GAZETTE observes that the Frenchmen have defied "the hoodoo of western aviation," and expect more of these flights. "The CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER says 'the achievement of Coste supplements the work of Lindbergh' that 'it proves that the Atlantic is no barrier between the Old World and the new, and that the science of aeronautics is assuredly destined to bind the entire world more closely and ever more closely together.'"

"Almost startling" is the verdict of the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL with the thought that "progress comes from perilous groping." The FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM sees "the near approach of commercial triumphs in aviation without limit," but the SAN ANTONIO NEWS believes "the answer after the Question Mark is not yet," and the SCRANTON TIMES describes the feat as "proving only the capacity of engines."

"The accumulations of information and experience that Coste and Bellonte were able to draw upon," declares the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, "diminished the margin of chance which every aviator has had to meet, many of them to their destruction. That they have made the possible use of these accumulations is greatly to their credit and makes their victory more valuable to the world as well as more honorable to themselves and to French aviation. They have not only proved their own skill, knowledge, and gallantry but they have reminded us that the art and science of aviation are moving rapidly and that a new epoch in man's progress is here."

It is appropriate that France should produce the pilots who would return the Lindbergh visit, using the same aerial terminals Paris and New York, to join the two countries," suggests the HARTFORD TIMES, adding that "the Lone Eagle's trail has been retraced with superb skill and courage." The SCHENECTADY GAZETTE makes the appraisal of Coste that "he has shown he possesses many of the qualities which have endeared Charles Lindbergh to us. Like our noted flier," continues that paper, "he has shown what can be accomplished by quiet, methodical, planning. Taking no chances, arranging carefully every last detail, acquainting himself with his airplane so it was almost a part of his very being, he awaited the proper opportunity for a take-off." The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL holds that "in view of the admitted difficulties of the Coste-Bellonte flight, it in no wise diminishes the glory of the French success to point out that there were two in the Coste plane."

"America, still jealous of the popularity of Lindbergh and Byrd, need not for an instant hesitate to rate the Frenchmen with them," concludes the NEW ORLEANS ITEM, while the LOS ANGELES EXPRESS agrees: "Men knew it would be done; it was only a matter of time when the right man and right plane and right atmospheric conditions would meet."

Bible Thought For Today

GOD'S ARITHMETIC—And besides this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, charity.—2 Peter 1:5-7.

"Oh, boy, I'd like to be a member of the commission he sends," said Tel Binkley, when he heard that President Hoover couldn't get off a Yellowstone park vacation.

Massive Oak Bench In City Police Court Could Tell Great Story

Green and black its quartered oak sides and inside drawers yet strong after rounding out over 30 years of existence, the old judge's bench which glorifies police court would have an interesting story to tell if its heavy timbers could learn to talk.

A score and five years ago the mass of wood was shamed when the county commissioners agreed to remove it from its exalted position in county court. But in silence the flat top which had echoed the gavel raps on numerous court trials soon found itself in a new atmosphere. The new room at police headquarters did not know the strict formalities that the four walls in the highest court in Lawrence county had known.

And the cases that were settled over its stout oak top. How petty and unimportant! No doubt the raters shuddered under their heavy coats of paint and blessed the half-shined brass rail in that kept the prisoners from touching its sides. It was a far cry from the good old days!

That was the favorite bench of the late Judge W. D. Wallace. In the 16 years of his term as county judge the cream and black bench now in police court had played an important part in the judicial annals of Lawrence county. Important decisions found their way across its shiny flat top. Its drawers held important papers.

Its very presence instilled fear to criminals who appeared before it for sentence.

Violent crimes and stiff sentences were not unknown in the late nineteenth, and at least two murderers are known to have received death sentences over this bench—sentences that bade the sheriff to mete out the extreme penalty by hanging the prisoner. In those days the sheriff of Lawrence county sprang the trap that snuffed the life out of one sentenced to be hanged.

Judge Wallace served from 1894 until the end of 1904, and on January 1, 1905 W. D. Porter, who died several months ago, succeeded to the county court bench. When Judge Porter came into office the bench was removed in preference to another bench, and the cream and black came to learn new and strange walls, as a substitute for another bench in police court.

Where once its quartered oak timbers listened while Judge Wallace issued prison licenses in the days when temperance societies appeared to be the only ones who knew anything at all about prohibition, they now hear pleas of defendants in petty liquor cases. Today police court holds in store little for the bench that spent years in a dignified atmosphere.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Gerassim Pribilof, a Russian navigator, in 1786.

Discovery was made after prolonged search by the Russians to locate the breeding grounds of the fur seals, which had been observed in large numbers about the passes of the Aleutian Islands. At the time of their discovery the Pribilof Islands were uninhabited by man, as there is no positive evidence that any human being had ever previously visited them.

The Pribilof Islands are five in number, and are of volcanic origin, with rocks, cliffs, and cinder cones characterizing the scenery. St. Paul Island, the largest of the group, is about thirteen and one-half miles long by seven and two-thirds miles wide. Formerly it was probably made up of a number of smaller islands which have been joined together by the action of the sea; hence, it has a number of sandy beaches alternating with stretches of rocky shore and cliffs.

The great industry of these Islands is the breeding of the Fur Seal from which industry the Government of the United States has received in cash more than was paid to the Russian Government for the Territory of Alaska.

Asserts Altenberg's Death Not Result Of Irene-Dague Holdup

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 16.—Emphatically denying that he had made any reports concerning the death last Friday of Fred F. Altenberg, 73, of North Main street, Dr. William F. Pohl, coroner of Butler county, stated today that in his opinion the hold-up of the P. H. Butler store on the morning of December 26 by Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder had little or no effect upon the man's resultant illness and death. The local coroner in an interview this morning declared that he had not been called to see Mr. Altenberg at any time and that there had been no necessity for any call by the coroner.

According to the certificate, Altenberg's death resulted from exhaustion following a heart attack. The certificate was signed by a local physician.

Reports published in Pittsburgh newspapers were to the effect that Altenberg's death had been caused as the result of the holdup last December 26 in which he was bound and gagged by the bandits. Although reports were to the contrary, Altenberg attended the Schroeder-Dague trial at New Castle but was not called upon to testify.

PULLING TOGETHER

The radio pulls us together. Tire some as many programs are, the capacity of the radio to bring the nation into co-operative effort is gigantic. February 22, 1932, it will have been 200 years since the birth of Washington. Plans are already suggested for a radio hook-up which will enable the combined marine, army and navy bands to lead millions all over the land in the singing of the national anthem. The president will address both houses of congress. The whole nation for a day will have its mind trained on the ideas and the ideals of the founders of the republic.

Seeing the high purposes to which it can be put, one can almost forgive the radio for its annoyances.

In ancient Athens, with slaves far outnumbering free men, a benevolent philosopher said that slavery must always exist, because, with no slaves, everyone must work, and there would be no leisure class to develop philosophy, the arts and sciences. The philosopher was right. Better partial slavery than stagnation.

But man's genius supplies him with slaves of steel, moved by steam and electricity, far beyond imagination. Prof. Roe, who teaches industrial engineering in New York University, says that machinery in the United States alone generates power equal to that of twelve billion slaves, working under the lash. If the population of the earth were multiplied by five, if they were all slaves and all adults, there would be lacking four billion slaves to do the work that machines do in the United States now.

Man's earthly salvation will be found and all his problems solved in his own brain. Even the present slump problem, following the murderous war, will be solved.

The Jewish Telegraph agency reports an interesting happening in the Midgal Jewish colony near Jerusalem. A Bedouin of the Arab tribe was being shot dead in a banana grove belonging to Jewish colonists.

He had perhaps, been caught pilfering.

It was a dangerous situation that might start a blood feud. Representatives of Bedouins and Jewish colonists met and signed a peace pact, to reign between us from now until eternity.

Bedouins and Jews, face to face, then held the Bedouin tribal rod. A silk handkerchief was put over it. The Jews tied two knots and the Bedouins three in the handkerchief. Then came the vow of eternal peace, and the Jewish elders embraced the relatives of the dead man.

As in bigger wars, the question of reparations arose, and the Jewish elders, after the oath of peace, paid $250 in cash to the dead man's relatives, agreeing to pay $375 more within two months.

That peace, like some others, may last, but probably will not. According to the learned Dean Inge, the incident is interesting ethnologically, for, he says, the original inhabitants of Judea, ancestors of today's Jews, were Bedouins, most savage fighters of all the Semitic tribes.

FLOAT FROM CITY
ASKED FOR PARADE

Word of the forthcoming celebration which will observe opening of the Perry highway between Pittsburgh and Sheakyleville, to be held in Mercer on October 8, and be attended by high state officials, including Governor John S. Fisher, has been received by Fred L. Rentz in the following letter from Willis S. Moffatt, secretary of the celebration organization:

The Fred L. Rentz, President, News Company, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir: Fred L. Rentz, President, Pittsburgh and Sheakyleville is to be formally opened by a celebration in Mercer on October 8, at which time Gov. John S. Fisher, State Highway Commissioner James L. Stuart, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Jordan, John Dight, Chief Engineer T. C. Frame are to be present and take part.

It is planned to have all towns along the route to take part in the celebration. There will be a historical parade in which an effort will be made to have all types of vehicles which ever passed over the road in the parade, as well as floats.

It is the hope of the committee to have each community furnish a float for the town as well as any old type vehicle in the parade. The Perry Highway association suggests you as a suitable person to co-operate in this matter and have your community represented.

Will you please take this matter up at once and let me know as soon as possible from you.

Very truly yours,
Will S. Moffatt,
Secretary.

Persons interested in the event described in the letter are urged to communicate with Mr. Rentz.

President Finds That American Buying Power Has Held Up Better Than Foreign Nations

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—American buying power has held up much better than that of foreign countries, President Hoover announced today after receiving figures on foreign trade submitted to him by the department of commerce.

"The department has made a study as to how far imports and exports have been affected by the fall in prices as distinguished from actual quantities," the president said. "During the first seven months of this year our exports have increased about 20 per cent in quantity and our imports have decreased about five per cent, indicating that our buying power has held up much better than that of foreign countries."

Trade figures for the month of August show total imports of $217,000,000 and total exports of about $300,000,000, the president said. This represents an increase in exports over July of about $38,000,000 while the imports also were increased over July at approximately the same amount.

Pinchot Resumes Tour Of State

Gifford Pinchot Today Will Visit Among Other Cities Greenville And Sharon

WILL CHAMPION UNEMPLOYMENT

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Former Governor Gifford Pinchot, Republican gubernatorial candidate, after being feted by Allegheny county politicians for three days, today was to continue his tour of Pennsylvania, speaking in Greenville and Sharon, Mercer county, today and Franklin and Oil City, Venango county, tonight.

At Jeannette yesterday, Pinchot discussed the present unemployment condition in Pennsylvania and promised to appoint an unofficial committee within the next two weeks to make a survey of conditions in the state and report to him prior to his inauguration.

Premises Jobs

"The recommendations of this unofficial committee," Pinchot declared, "will be my basis for action upon entering the office of governor. Relief from unemployment is never immediate but I promise to do all within my power to alleviate the situation."

"Every worker in Pennsylvania should be able to get a job when he wants to work."

"I plan to spend not less than $50,000,000 on improvement of minor county roads during my four years in office, if elected."

The "tall forester" made only a brief reference to the Philadelphia situation during the Jeannette speech, saying "If they want four years of war, they can have it. Mr. Hemp-hill speaks their language." He did not amplify that statement.

Pinchot's stay in Pittsburgh was concluded last night with an address over the radio in which he continued his discussion of the unemployment situation.

and hundreds of glasses of jelly and jars of fruit will be laid on the pantry shelves of many local homes, to be used during the winter months.

Could each housewife lay aside several glasses of jelly and several jars of canned fruit and donate these goodies to the Jameson Memorial hospital? There isn't any way in world that the food could be put to better use.

Members of the Jameson Memorial Aid society have decided on the dates October 31 and November 1 as donation days for the hospital. They are asking every individual, church, organization and society of the city and county to cooperate in making those donation days really mean something to the splendid Jameson hospital.

A convenient place downtown will be used to gather together all the donations. Each church and society will have several committee members to have charge of gathering the fruit, jelly, canned goods, groceries and vegetables.

DROUTH AND HEAT

By S. S. MYERS

The past summer has been one of unusual drouth and heat. Such an occurrence must be the result of some cause, as nothing happens by accident. Astronomers and weather experts have at last gotten together and come forward with an explanation.

They tell us that this year's drouth and heat were due to two fundamental causes. One is the position of the moon in space, modifying its tidal pull on the earth's oceans, and the other is the condition of the sun in its sun-spot cycle. It would require too much space to enter into a full detailed discussion of the matter, but I shall try to make it as clear as possible by touching only the high spots:

As the moon passes around the earth, which, in turn, is flying at much greater speed and in a much longer orbit around the sun, the orbit of the moon gradually varies its shape and position. From time to time the moon rises higher or lower in the earth's skies, which means that its orbit is tilted more or less to that of the earth. From time to time, the moon comes closer to the earth, varying with the shape of its orbit from an eclipse to nearly that of a circle.

All of these motions have been charted by astronomers and occur regularly in cycles of about eighteen and a half years. The advances and retards of the moon, its varying positions from year to year with respect to the axis of the earth, all effect its gravitational pull on the earth's oceans and change the heights of the tides.

Now, the gigantic engine that keeps the whole of the weather moving over the earth, providing power for the lifting of water in the form of mist which descends in rain, for the ceaseless activity of the winds, the terrific energy of storms and for all other atmospheric movements is the heat of the sun. The sun heats the land and the oceans. The air next to the land or water becomes warm and rises. Colder air from above descends to take its place. The warm air ascending and the cold air descending produce a cyclonic movement over a large area.

The center of the cyclonic movement is an area of high-pressure. Such an area lay almost stationary over the United States during this past summer, with the winds moving outward from the land. No rain could be produced by these outward blowing winds, for they had no place to gather water. Rain winds are those that come from the oceans. But back of all this, the weather experts claim, was another factor which was permitting the high-pressure to remain over the United States. This factor, they say, was a northerly shift of what is called the North American storm track. Ordinary high pressure air does not

Fraenkel's Body Reaches Norway

Remains Of Arctic Explorer Who Died With Andree Reach Tromsøe

REUNITED WITH FAMOUS LEADER

By ARNE KILDAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TROMSØE, Norway, Sept. 16.—Separated for only a few brief weeks over the space of 33 years, the mortal remains of Salomon August Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Praenkel were brought together again today.

The body of Praenkel, discovered on White Island by an expedition aboard the steamer Isbjørn, was brought to Tromsøe today, reverently taken off the vessel in its rude coffin of pine boards and carried to the Tromsøe hospital, where the bodies of Andree and Strindberg, found last month by Dr. Gunnar Horn, are still being studied by scientists.

Draped with a Swedish flag, Fraenkel's coffin was escorted to the hospital by sailors from the Swedish warship Svenskund, waiting here to take the explorers' bodies back to Stockholm for a state funeral. Additional relics of the expedition found by the Isbjørn expedition also will be taken to the hospital for minute investigation.

Street Department Ready For Winter; Streets Regraded

Extensive Work Being Done To Prepare Thoroughfares For Cold Weather

Extensive preparations are now being made by the city street department to make thoroughfares ready for the coming winter. From the office of the street commissioner it was announced today that streets in the east part of the city are being graded by the power grader.

On Monday such roads as the Narrows, Cemetery hill and paper Mill hill, were graded by the machine. Gutters were swept and stones removed in many instances. Today workmen were engaged on Cascade, County Line, Baty and Fern streets.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Up around Taggart field even a stranger would know there was something of importance booked for the near future. A crew of workmen are putting up the electric light reflectors, bleachers are being put up, the field is being policed, and the scoreboard is being put in a new location. Football Friday night is the answer and the preparations are all pointing to that.

This year the scoreboard goes in at the south end of the field and will be higher than it has been in the past. All of which will be appreciated by the fans. In past seasons the score boards seemed to think that the figures on the board were a state secret and insisted upon draping themselves over them. The result was that you never could tell what the score was if any and if so how much.

Up at Westminster college the "frosh" are checking in today and it won't be long now until the city of New Wilmington will be full of youngsters. And of course the inevitable, ubiquitous, "dinks" greet us as the shores of old Erin and as becoming as a black eye.

The gridiron vallants have been in some time, following Dykes Beede's course of trouble and eating at the training table. Never having been subjected to a training table diet I can only guess what it must be. The understanding is that it reminds you of a hospital tray, it's so different.

In another column today you will find a story of a hold up near the state line last night. And it seems to me that the actions of those telephone girls in stopping their car, calling assistance and doing everything that you would expect a courageous man to do calls for a couple of cheers or something.

Modern history is full of evidences of the nerve of telephone girls and these young ladies were merely living up to the traditions of their calling.

There's a lawyer in town who rolls his own lunch. Orders a flock of soft boiled eggs, say four or five, gets a bucket of cracker crumbs and then proceeds to mix it all together. After ten or fifteen minutes of stirring, accompanied by suggestions from the lads gathered at nearby tables, the omelet or mousse, or ragout, or whatever it is he calls it, is ready.

Mother Cat Likes Basket For Kittens But Objects To Basket Being Moved!

A basket lined with blankets and cotton was provided when the pet cat of a local drug store presented the town with four fluffy kittens. Everything was done to make them happy and contented. In fact, everyone went out of his way to do so—and everyone had a different idea of where the basket should be placed.

You see, they reasoned this way: a cat could move her kittens one by one if she wanted them in a different place, but how could she move a basket of kittens? She couldn't, of course. So the basket was often placed in a different location, according to the person's (not the cat's) ideas.

Kitty put up with this although it made her rather dizzy hunting for her movable family.

She made up her mind that this would never happen again. It was good to have a comfortable basket, but peace meant such a lot.

Now some more kittens have arrived to this same cat—but where are they? Well, the general location is down in the cellar, and maybe under many packing boxes and barrels behind the heater and in the farthest dark and most inaccessible cellar.

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like a stationary home!

Four Hundred Attend Reunion

McFarland School Reunion At Liberty Grange Hall Is Outstanding Success

Liberty grange hall on Saturday was the scene of gayety, as 400 former pupils, teachers and their families of McFarland school met for their third annual reunion. And what a reunion it was! It was certainly the largest ever held by the McFarland school crowd.

Many scholars traveled long distances in order to see their old school friends and live again those never to be forgotten days spent in old McFarland school.

Three oldest pupils present were Mrs. Hannah Waddington, of New Brighton, 86; Mrs. Annie E. McFarland, Mt. Jackson road, 84; and Mrs. A. R. Kerr, North Beaver street, New Castle, 80. The five weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Allison was the youngest present.

A basket dinner was enjoyed and various sports, races, horse-shoes, etc., were interesting diversions of the evening.

Among those present was the first teacher of the school, Mrs. Sara Boyles, of Harlansburg, 86 years of age. McFarland school was built in 1864. Sam Hunt, of Warren, O., another former teacher, was also among those present.

Last year's officers were re-elected: William Aiken, president; Stoner brothers, vice president and treasurer; Grace Aiken, secretary.

Music was furnished by an orchestra. Everyone of the 400 got enough enjoyment out of Saturday's event to carry them over until the next annual reunion which will be held at about the same time next year.

Maybe the great heart of America would do more for the jobless if they'd move to Armenia or China.

LOW PRICE OF CANE SUGAR STIMULATES HOME PRESERVING

Winter Food Bills Can Be Materially Reduced by Putting Up Fruit Now

One cannot go to market these days without being reminded that this is the year to make jellies, jams and preserves. Luscious fruit is in abundance and cheap everywhere, and pure cane sugar—the best to be had—is offered at an unheard-of low price.

The woman who puts up a dozen jars of fruit or a few glasses of jelly and jam will be surprised at how little they cost her. But the real saving will be noticed later when these delicious home-made preserves make it unnecessary to buy others.

As a means of making menus attractive, there are few foods more helpful than jellies, jams and preserves. For children, canned fruit is a most desirable breakfast dish or dessert.

Sweet pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage or melon rind are also easy and inexpensive to put up. When served with meat and fish the combination is delicious. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Give Child Music Study When Young

My oldest boy will enter college without any training in instrumental music. Thanks to the public school, he has learned some vocal music.

I'm sorry for the lad. There will be times when ability to play some instrument would afford him a great deal of personal satisfaction and bring him in touch with group enjoyments he will not have.

Musically I am a moron. I really do not know enough about music to realize how much I have missed. I am cut off, no doubt, from much of the culture of the ages, though I must admit that I have learned to enjoy listening to good music.

But merely to listen is a limited function. No one can get greatest satisfaction from good music, I believe, unless he can himself express it. Personally, I feel greatly handicapped.

How did it happen that my oldest boy was neglected? Bad theory, is the answer. His mother and I for a number of years took the attitude that we would wait until he showed interest in music before we would expose him to lessons on an instrument. He never did, at least, we never discovered his interest. When he approached adolescence and we realized what we thought was our mistake, we agreed (perhaps we were wrong again) that the cost to him and us emotionally of setting him to take music lessons when he objected to it, was not desirable, and, as he grew older we realized that such cost would naturally increase.

We did better by his sister, two years younger; but we also waited too long with her. We had believed that a child not showing marked aptitude for music should not be given lessons before nine or ten years of age, on account of the physical and nervous tax. We overlooked more important factors—the greater readiness of the child at a younger age to adapt himself to beginning musical instruction and to conform to routine.

We parents sometimes count our theories very precious but the poor kids later have to pay the price! With the youngest we have done better. He began to take piano lessons at seven. But he receives only two brief lessons a week, doing all his practice with the teacher. He enjoys it and is making satisfactory progress. Of course, he may have more native talent for it than the other children have. Yet the other children didn't have the same opportunity.

I have a notion that virtually all children, if possible, should be started on the piano at six or seven, given a few short lessons per week, with no home practice for a year or two,

then a little gradually added year by year; and that they should take it as a matter of course whether they want it or not. If after a few years they find it unattractive or repellent they had better drop it. Surely they ought to be given an opportunity. What do you think about it?

Division Here Tops Section B In Close Safety Competition

Leads Rivals In President's Annual Trophy Race; Shows Good Work

Employees of the Erie and Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad were leading the superintendent's and trainmaster's sections of Class B in President W. W. Atterbury's safety trophy contest for the first seven months of 1930, it became known today.

In the station department running the E. and A. was tied with the Akron and Moongahela divisions for first place. The maintenance of way department of the local division placed sixth among the others of Class B, in the maintenance of equipment section, tenth, and in the engine service division, fifth.

Class A sections were led in most cases by the Pittsburgh division while the Akron division led most of those competing in Class C.

Local Delegates To Attend Convention

Railroads Will Give Half Fare To Delegates Attending Scranton Conference

The New Castle and Lawrence county delegates who attend the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association convention at Scranton on October 8, 9 and 10 will be instructed and inspired with an especially good program containing as it does such recognized leaders as Miss Margaret Slattery, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Dr. Milton H. Nichols, Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen and many others.

As to the means of transportation to the convention, the railroads are giving round trip fare and one-half; then, too, a number will wish to drive through to Scranton and at the present time there is a movement on foot to work up a coach load from Mercer, Lawrence and Butler counties. A comfortable coach would be provided and in order to enjoy the scenery one route would be taken going to the convention and another route coming back. However, this is not definite but any wishing to go this way, and those desiring credentials, may call the county secretary, phone 3660-M.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—With Gotham's metropolitan ten million spending between forty and fifty million dollars a year on theatre tickets, New York has just awakened to the fact that the theatre program is a most important and lucrative adjunct to the show shop. These programs are now published by a single concern and printed on good paper, in readable, attractive type, and constitute really important publications.

Their one defect is the quantity of stupid cigarette advertising they carry. But nobody takes the modern cigarette ad seriously. Cigarette smoking is a habit that fits in with this jazz age as comfortably as cocktail-shakers and bobbed hair. The Little White Slaves are sold not because of but despite their asinine exploitation.

SUCCESS.

Your old college chum, Frank Craven, has rung the bell again. He put on a new show the other night, called "That's Gratitude," thereby giving new heart and life to a season that opened none too auspiciously.

Craven is a master of simplicity and shyness in comedy. He is profoundly HUMAN and touches humanity at many contacts. Even in his both blithesome moments he never forgets that men and women are endowed with wonderful creations called Souls. Thus his windows open on fascinating prospects.

When the roses bloom again and the current season is placed in the balance for appraisal, "That's Gratitude" will be chalked up among the Delights.

COMFORT.

Theatre going would be so much more pleasurable if managers devoted more attention to the seating arrangements, with the comfort of their patrons in mind. The average New York theatre seat is an impossible contraption.

In a row of twelve chairs there are thirteen arm rests. Place twelve average men and women in twelve seats, in a row, and you'll find one or two hogs in the bunch who think that their $3.30 or $4.40 entitles them to sprawl over into the confines you have bought and paid for.

ROAD HOG.

At the Frank Craven show I had one of those pests on my right—an elderly man of the "intellectual" type. He was a stout, gray-haired, superior sort of person, exuding a Court of Appeals air. When the curtain went up on the prologue he leaned back comfortably, protruding a left, pudgy elbow far to leeward.

By means of a little nonchalant elbow work of my own I endeavored to make clear to him that he wasn't making a bit with me. But he ignored the gesture completely and finally I turned to him and said:

"Your elbow is sticking into my ribs."

He surveyed my graceful proportions with an air of outraged dignity and without removing his elbow, replied:

"Your ribs ARE a bit prominent!" "Be that as it may," said I, "I never permit a perfect stranger to nestle his elbow into them. I'm peculiar like that. My whole family is the same way."

He thereupon removed his elbow and for the remainder of the performance leaned ostentatiously to the right, as far as possible from me.

Not that I wanted him any closer; but his elaborate avoidance somehow spoiled my entire evening.

IN THE FAMILY.

The Duchess shares my hard luck in the matter of theatre contracts. The people on either side of her do not crowd; but invariably, as she settles down on her shoulder blades to enjoy the show, with a clear view of the stage across a couple of empty seats in the front of the tallest man in the world comes in and plumps down, and she spends the ensuing two hours studying the creases in the back of his neck.

COMING OVER.

Hannan Swaffer, the eccentric dramatic critic of London, is coming to New York and, and preparations are being made to show him as good a time as he'll let anyone show him.

The Worthy Brother is not only eccentric, but he knows he's eccentric, and he's aware that half his value lies in that fact, which makes him difficult, at times, to handle.

On one occasion, when he was working for Northcliff on the old Sunday Dispatch, he said:

"Chief, there's one thing the matter with you, that, in my opinion, interferes with your success as a publisher."

"What's that, Poet?" inquired Northcliff.

"You have a suburban mind," said Hannan Swaffer.

In New York today when you call a man "Judge" you have to smile, or you're likely to get shot.

No wonder there is more crime in America than elsewhere. There are more cars to provide a get-away.

P. R. R. Bridges To Undergo Inspection

Division Engineer Van Nort Sets September 22, 23 And 24 As Dates

Division Engineer C. W. Van Nort of the Pennsylvania railroad, with his assistants, today was mapping out plans for the regular fall inspection of bridges along the Erie and Ashtabula division lines to be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

General office engineers will accompany Mr. Van Nort on the trips, it is said. A careful investigation will be made into the condition of every bridge during the three-day inspection.

You see, it isn't wrong to bring in cheap Mexican laborers because they pick cotton instead of taking jobs from union men.

Freshman Reception And Registration At College

First-Year Students Met At Special Chapel This Morning

(Special to The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 16.

Members of the freshman class at Westminster college got their introduction to college life today when the faculty of the college carried out a program of orientation and advice which started at 10 o'clock in the morning and will run until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A special freshman chapel service at 10 this morning was under direction of President W. Charles Wallace. Following the opening and devotion service, President Wallace spoke briefly to the freshmen on the aims of college and the duties of the college student. Heads of departments then spoke briefly about problems of registration, enrolling in courses so as to get required work dispensed with, and variations in requirements for the various pre-professional degrees.

Following the chapel service, at 11 o'clock, Prof. J. A. Short and Dr. Harry Young of the department of psychology and education, supervised the administering of the Carnegie Foundation uniform intelligence tests to all members of the freshman class. Westminster, as one of the colleges cooperating with the Carnegie Foundation in studying education in the state, gives tests each year to the incoming class and to the graduating class for the purpose of comparisons.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock registration of freshmen began in the first-floor halls of Old Main Memorial. Registration of the first year students will continue tomorrow morning from 9 to 12.

Tonight at 8 o'clock a get-acquainted party for the freshmen will be held in the Hillside parlors. This party, sponsored by the faculty, will be directed by Mrs. C. B. Robertson, dean of women, and Mrs. W. Charles Wallace.

Upper classmen will be registered tomorrow from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 4, and again on Thursday from 9 in the morning until noon and again in the afternoon from 2 until 4. There will be a break in upper class registration Thursday morning, however, when the opening chapel service of the year will be held at 11 o'clock.

Classes start at 8 o'clock Friday morning. The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. groups will have separate parties for the freshmen women and freshmen men on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, while a general get-acquainted party is scheduled for the gymnasium on Friday evening.

Dead Animals Are Cremated At City Incinerating Plant; Several Reported This Month

Dogs and cats have been quite careless in crossing the city streets recently, and as a result there has been an unusually large number hauled away to the incinerating plant, according to Sergeant James Steiner of the New Castle police force.

When an animal is killed on a city street the call comes in as a general rule to the police station and word is then sent to employees of the incinerating plant, where the dead animal is disposed of. It gets no elaborate burial, the cremation system being used.

Quite a number of dogs and cats killed by automobiles have been reported to Sergeant Steiner so far this month.

Price Now 14 Cents
In Akron 'Gas' War

AKRON, O., Sept. 16.—Akron automobile owners rejoiced today as another skirmish in a gasoline price war here brought the price of low test gas at all service stations operated by major oil companies to 14 cents a gallon, as compared to 21 cents a gallon one month ago.

The cuts here by "regular" companies have been made in a determined effort to meet the long-time competition of certain cut-rate gasoline dispensers, which have been underselling the "regulars" by three cents a gallon.

Each recent price drop by regular gasoline dealers has been met by drops in cut-rate prices. Today's slash makes all prices equal.

Owners of cut-rate stations say they are still making a profit on their gasoline but they were non-committal about further reductions.

Thousands viewed the flyers trans-Atlantic plane, the Question Mark, breaking through police lines twice to get close-up glimpses.

The welcome of the flyers was shared with Louise Stef, 16 and her brother, John 13, two children who recovered a map dropped from the Question Mark as it flew over New Hampshire enroute to New York. The children came to Boston from their home in Portsmouth, N. H. to return the map to the flyers. Coste gave each of the children two smacking kisses and promised them a souvenir from the Question Mark to replace the map. Louise said a man from New York had offered her $1,000 for the map, but she refused it when she learned the French flyers wanted it returned to them.

End Questioning Of Two Girls In Death Of Joyce

Prosecutors Convinced That State Senator Joyce Of Illinois Died Of Poisoning

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Investigation into the poison death of State Senator John T. Joyce into its second phase today as prosecutors finished questioning two girls and ordered their release.

Investigation said important clues had been obtained from Isabelle Daly, foster daughter of Joyce who was questioned and cross-questioned for several hours regarding quarrels with the Senator's widow and her relations with Joyce during her stay in his home.

The other witness deposed was Bernice Webb, one a roomer in the Joyce home.

Prosecutors said they were convinced that Joyce died from prussic acid poisoning shortly before he was testily regarding gang terror operations at the polls last spring in his district here. The state's attorney's office said they were pressing their investigation of the death of Mrs. Joyce's first husband, Howard Daly, father of Miss Daly.

Suggests Individual Glasses And Towels For Use In Homes

"Thanks to modern progress the great majority of Pennsylvania's citizens share in common many blessings including modern living advantages. Electricity, sanitation, safe water and milk, protection against epidemics and recreation are enjoyed by the rich and poor alike. And for this reason it is quite safe to say that never in man's history have the conditions that make for real living, as contrasted to existence, been so generally enjoyed and so generously available as they are in the present period," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, today.

"As against this laudable progress the good old times, in addition to the twelve hour day experienced in common, sanctioned the common glass and towel, which frequently resulted in the deadly spread of disease-developing germs. However, science has also practically put an end to these unsafe practices so far as public places are concerned. As a consequence, the soiled towel used by all and sundry and the drinking glass of similar status are infrequently encountered even when investigations on the subject are made. Which speaks splendidly for the legislation back of the situation as well as for its efficient enforcement.

"Nevertheless, as is well known, there are thousands upon thousands of glasses and towels that never see the inside of a public place. Being altogether domesticated, they are part and parcel of the family—and sometimes with unfortunate results. Glasses should be used individually in homes, and towels likewise. Sanitation demands it. And the possibility of spreading disease in such a manner should effectively stop such an antiquated and dangerous practice.

"Any number of instances are on record proving that contagious disease has been spread in a family in this way, and oftentimes by members who were to all intents and purposes enjoying the best of health.

"A good rule to follow is never knowingly to use a glass or towel that has already been used by someone else until it is properly cleaned. Moreover, towels should not be used by individuals more than a very few times before rejection.

"What is good, safe and sanitary for the public places is equally so for homes. Continue to enjoy the good things in common. But do not become too common with the common glass and towel in your home."

Early Newspaperwoman In City Startled Staid County Court

Thirty-four years ago a New Castle woman reporter's appearance in the court house in quest of news startled the staid frequenters in the county hall of justice. The sight of a female who represented herself as a member of the Fourth Estate proved a novelty that was worth a joke. The occasion evoked considerable comment and the scribe who had so daringly set forth to comb the court house offices for news was told by her editor to write her experiences.

Her story appeared in the February 22, 1896 issue of The News. It was in part as follows: "The comfortable lounging attitude of the court house officials was somewhat disturbed this morning by the unusual and startling appearance of a woman reporter. We were received with courtesy however, and was considered enough to keep our eyes down-cast so that the gentlemen could indulge in the smile that was not to be repressed.

Radio Commission Will Put Halt To New Racket

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—A new racket, trafficking in radio licenses and in time on the air, has developed to such a degree in this country that the Federal Radio Commission has decided to take drastic steps to call a halt to these practices.

Although the radio act emphasizes the fact that all privileges granted under a license expires at the end of a license period and that the license is a franchise which cannot be sold, an unprecedented number of applications for change of ownership of stations have been filed recently.

Another apparent effort to take advantage of the radio commission is the practice of numerous stations licensed to broadcast daily for short periods for the benefit of schools and churches to apply for the assignment of their license to commercial corporations. In most cases the request is accompanied by an appeal for more time on the air.

The commission in its desire to promote educational features and to carry church programs to the homes of the people has been liberal in granting licenses to those groups of applicants. Now a number of such stations have been commercialized and ask for more time to take care of advertisers.

It is likely that the commission in many cases will find it advisable to cancel these licenses rather than add to the overload channels. Where a real necessity for a commercial station is recognized, the commission will scrutinize the application carefully to determine the financial responsibility of the new applicant and his standing in the community.

Railroad, Plants To Participate In Safety Congress

Delegations From Industries Here To Attend Pittsburgh Sessions

Railroads and industries of the New Castle district will likely be represented at the 19th annual National Safety Congress and Exhibition in Pittsburgh from September 30 to October 2, it is believed.

Invitations have already been received by a number of local plants and railroad offices which ordinarily have representatives in attendance for the sessions. Separate conferences are scheduled for the various types of industries.

Outstanding leaders in the field of safety are to make addresses before the different conferences during the three days. Among them will be George H. Warfield of the Union Pacific Railroad, chairman of the council's committee on safety methods. He will speak to the steam railroad section.

Featuring the congress will be the address of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, and the showing of his private films made on the expedition from which he has just returned. Byrd's appearance will come October 1.

Rooms of the Port Pitt and William Penn hotel are to be devoted to the safety meetings and exhibition.

Plan Rally Day At First Baptist

Goal For September 21 Is 1000—Every Class Is Given Quota

The First Baptist church is making arrangements for their annual Rally Day which comes on Sunday, September 21, this year.

Each year a quota is set and each member does his utmost to promote this number. The number anticipated this year is 1000. Last year it was 888 and the attendance lacked but a small number.

Every class is given a quota which is based on the enrollment of the class and if each member is responsible for himself being there the set number will most certainly be reached.

Special programs have been arranged and Rev. Neighbor will deliver the special Rally Day message.

All departments will meet in the auditorium for the opening worship. Let's all co-operate with Paul D. Weller, church superintendent and have one hundred per cent attendance in all the classes.

GERMAN DICTATORSHIP RUMORED

Rumors from Germany, which have been denied in official circles, point to a military dictatorship within Germany and an alliance with Russia for the reconquest of the strip of Poland which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany, revision of the Treaty of Versailles and the Young plan for reparations. Those mentioned in connection with the plan are (1) President Von Hindenburg; (2) Maj. Oscar Von Hindenburg, the president's son, who is supposed to be acting as the go-between between his father and the sympathetic generals, among them Curt Von Hammerstein (3), head of the department of foreign troops in the cabinet. The position of Wilhelm Groener, national defense minister, is not clear, although he proved a democrat, in 1918 (when he advised the former kaiser to abdicate). He is understood either to have fallen in with the plan or preparing to resign. General Hans Von Seeckt (4), former commander of the German army, probably would succeed him.

Long Winning in Louisiana Primary

Following a campaign in which charges and counter-charges flew indiscriminately, Governor Huey Long (above), of Louisiana, apparently had captured the Democratic Senatorial nomination from the incumbent, Senator Joseph E. Ransdell.

SENATE GETS FIVE LAME DUCKS

Washington will see five lame ducks sitting in the senate during the next session of congress, (1) Cole L. Blease of South Carolina; (2) Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana; (3) Furnifold M. Simmons of North Carolina; (4) Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, and (5) Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania. All together there will be eleven new faces in the upper house, since six other senators are retiring voluntarily. Ransdell was defeated after 31 years in congress, serving continuously in the senate since 1913, by Governor Huey P. Long, in a bitter local fight. The capitol loses a picturesque figure in Blease, who, in his six years in the senate, has steadfastly defended lynching and admitted he drank but would always vote dry.

Variety Of Queer Peach Stone Curios Made By Local Man

When Charles Miller of 803 Croton avenue goes to work at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing on South Mill street he often takes with him some peach stones. And when he returns in the evening he brings the same stones home—but it would be with great difficulty that they would be recognized as such.

With a few twists of a three-cornered file and a few digs with his pocket knife Mr. Miller can make a peach stone into a comical monkey, a basket, a stoical Indian, a pitcher, a chicken—practically anything, in fact.

At his home on Croton avenue there is a wide variety of queer curios made by Mr. Miller out of peach stones. Perhaps the most striking of all is the pair of portieres that hang in one of the doorways. The portieres were made entirely of peach stones and beads. The stones were carved into hundreds of queer looking faces and objects. Six years ago the portieres were exhibited in a leading New Castle store for several weeks.

Among the curios can be found several likenesses of Felix the Cat and Tilda, the maid of the Gumps. Widow Zander is there, too, but she wears her old blonde transformation. Mr. Miller has not yet pictured the widow with her latest beautiful wig. Then there is Andy Gump, with a pet monkey on his arm. This was made by the use of two peach stones glued side by side on a peach stone base. There is a Scotchman, a pea fowl, a baboon in a row boat, a white-tailed monkey taking up collection with a little pan, another monkey sitting huddled up on a stool, and still another one holding an umbrella.

After the objects are carved Mr.

Miller mixes some paint and adds to their realistic appearance by giving them some natural color. The Indians are real red-faced ones, the monkeys are brown and baskets of all colors.

Useful novelties have been made of some of the stones. There are small urns with pin cushion centers and pitchers with hinged lids.

Peach stone carving is not a new thing. It has been an interesting diversion for many years. But it is most unusual to see a collection of such marvels of craftsmanship as Mr. Miller has made.

MUSCLE SHOALS

Editor News:—Some time ago a reader of the News asked the question, "What are the Muscle Shoals we hear so much about and why should anyone desire to possess them?"

Being interested in this inquiry and feeling that many of my fellow readers might enjoy a few words on the subject, I have looked into the matter somewhat and would present the following explanation:

In an old geography compiled by Jedidiah Morse, A. M., in the year 1794 when Washington was President of the United States, this description of the Muscle Shoals is given in that of the United States, south of the Ohio River, or the Tennessee Government.

It reads: "The Tennessee, called also the Cherokee or the Hogehog river is the greatest branch of the Ohio. It rises in the mountains of Virginia, latitude 37 degrees and pursues a course of about 1000 miles south and southwest nearly to latitude 34 degrees. It then wheels about to the north, in a circuitous course and mingles with the Ohio nearly 60 miles from the mouth of the latter stream. From its entrance into the Ohio, the Muscle Shoals, 250 miles the current is very gentle and the river deep enough at all seasons for the largest row boats. The Muscle Shoals are about 20 miles in length. At this place the river spreads to a width of three miles and forms a number of islands, and is of difficult passage, except when there is a swell in the river. From these shoals to the whirl, the place where the river breaks through the Great Ridge, or Cumberland Mountains, is 250 miles, the navigation all the way being excellent for boats of 40 or 50 tons."

The reader will remember that those were the days when old Daniel Boone was roaming about the woodlands dodging the bullets of the savages and that the country was a wilderness, but hardy pioneers had explored the region and among other things had discovered the Muscle Shoals.

The railroads, highways, cities and farms were to come in the fulness of time. Coming down through the years to the present time, the Muscle Shoals are located in the big bend of the Tennessee River in northern Alabama and extend from the railroad bridge at Florence, approximately 37 miles eastward to Brown's Island near Decatur. Between the points named the bed of the Tennessee is a series of shoals or shallow places, one right after the other with a fall of 140 feet in that distance, resulting naturally in a very rapid river current. The shoals are deposits of muscles made in ages past and are valuable as phosphates, nitrates, etc. The chief value of the shoals is the possibilities arising from the development of electric power along the river to be distributed through many stations through out the entire region.

One writer says: "Muscle Shoals—the Niagara of the South—waiting through the ages for man to tame their roaring waters and harness their mighty power." Already the Government has expended about $50,000,000 in constructing the Wilson Dam, in building two experimental nitrate plants, an electric power plant and a steam power plant, all at or near Florence, Alabama. It is said that within the limits of the Tennessee basin are found fifty mineral substances of economic value which list includes iron ore, limestone, bauxite, marble, copper, ball clay, coal and phosphates, all of which could be reached and developed by power generated at Muscle Shoals. Edison is quoted as saying "The completed Muscle Shoals is worth more than all the gold currency of the world."

Library At That Institution Has 400 Books; Four New Teachers

The enrollment at Oak street school according to Miss Iretta Dart, principal of that institution is 512 students.

One of the new things at that school is the library which has been equipped this school year.

During the summer months book cases were made for the library and today the library of that school makes a neat appearance. Miss Lillian Sedwick is the librarian. Close to 400 books are already in it.

Four teachers are new at that school this year. They are Miss Harriet Kearns, primary art and music; Miss Virginia McMillin, primary health; Miss Pearl McClure, primary academic subjects; and Miss Ina Rosenberg, primary subjects.

An attractive room at Oak street is the art room, which Miss Harriet Kearns is supervisor. The desks in this room have been decorated by the children and look most attractive.

Pennsy Boy Amazes Mother

"Frank's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. M. Zuschlag, 2248 So. 66th St., Philadelphia. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated."

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give Frank some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, head-achy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

A-B Gas Ranges

Over 1,500 Satisfied Users in Lawrence County

"THE TRUE MEASURE OF VALUE"—is never first cost alone. The most expensive articles to own are often the cheapest to acquire. No price tag ever tells the story—the true cost is initial price, plus upkeep, divided by years of service.

In normal, everyday use, the average life of a Gas Range will approximate 10 years. A first quality product will give from 15 to 25 years of service. It costs no more to own the best.

The A-B Points of Superiority—

Dual Burner

The A-B Dual Burner Cooking Top is a combination large burner and boiling burner, controlled by a single valve, making cooler kitchens, lower gas bills, freedom from worry.

Block Insulated Ovens

The A-B Insulated Oven Ranges are all equipped with the patented Block insulation which insures against the sagging or slipping of the insulation. The insulation can be easily removed without the usual trouble of packing in loose material.

Wildor or Porcelain Oven Linings and Sani-Tray

The A-B Ranges now come with the porcelain or Wildor metal, rust-proof linings in the ovens. The bottom of the ovens are equipped with the Sani-Tray which slides out and can be washed if anything boils over in the oven. They can be used also as a cookie sheet.

Automatic Lighter for All Burners and Oven

Heat at the turn of the valve, with the insta-flame—on the burners, including the oven, makes the A-B Range safe and convenient—no matches, simple to operate.

Wonderful Assortment of Style and Price

The prices on the new A-B Gas Ranges are lower than any other high quality gas range on the market. We take great pleasure in announcing that we have never seen such finely built, clean-cut, beautiful ranges in our whole half century of experience at such moderate prices.

Y. M. C. A. Season Opens October 1

Prospects For Big Enrollment
Again This Winter
Are Bright

Only a few more days remain before the opening of the 1930-31 indoor program at the Y. M. C. A. here, and preparations are going forward today for the formal commencement of the regular schedule on Wednesday, October 1.

Boys' Work Secretary W. A. Thomas who supervises all club activities announces that emphasis will be laid this year on boys' club work more than ever before. There were 25 clubs last year, but he expects to have 35 functioning this winter.

"We plan to touch the outlying districts of the city with our programs this year," said Mr. Thomas. "Heretofore, the clubs have only included city groups, but this year we plan to take in Mt. Jackson and other places like that in the county."

Speaking of the enrollment prospects for this year, Secretary Thomas declared that indications point to one of the largest for some time.

Rev. R. E. Neighbor Begins Bible Studies

Series Of Lessons Being Given
In The First Baptist Church
Nightly

A very attentive and interested audience heard Dr. R. E. Neighbor give the first of a series of Bible studies last night at the First Baptist church, on the general subject, "Spiritual Blessings in Heavenly Places." Dr. Neighbor said in part, "The preeminence of the spiritual blessings in Christ, God says very little to the believer about earthly blessings because the spiritual blessings are so much superior. Yet the majority of men are groveling among the things under the sun, and never see the rich inheritance they might have had above the sun, in the heavenly places. If God were to tell us who the richest man in America is, we might be greatly surprised, for it might not be the man who pays the largest income tax. Much of the world spends its time blowing bubbles which last but for a moment, and care nothing for the unseen things which are eternal. Three things God tells us not to do: Look not at the things which are seen; Lay not up treasures upon earth; and love not the world." By virtue of his union with Christ, the believer has three great blessings: he has a new life, for he has been quickened together with Christ; he has a new position, for he has been raised up together with Christ, and he has a new fellowship, for he has been made to set together with Christ in the heavens.

This evening at 7:30 Dr. Neighbor will speak on "The Warfare in the Heavenly Places." The song service was led by David S. Williams with Miss Mabel Morrison at the piano. Prayer was offered by Dr. Walter E. McClure of the First Presbyterian church. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Bert E. Williams of the First Baptist church of Ellwood City.

Pauper's Grave Awaits Spender Of 30 Million

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—A pauper's grave today awaited Armand Schwob, who died yesterday at the age of 73 after an adventurous career in the United States, Europe and the Argentine, in which he is alleged to have run through $30,000,000.

Schwob was a Swiss, but obtained his start in life through jewelry deals under the patronage of the czarist court. He went bankrupt in Buenos Aires and later moved in New York society until imprisoned on a check charge. He escaped from Sing Sing in 1917.

He fled to Paris and made a fortune in army supplies, becoming discredited later with charges of espionage. From France he went to Germany, and after other misadventures, sank into the obscurity in which he died.

Military Quiz Unites Old Friends After Separation

To meet a world war veteran and friend he had not seen for 11 years was the recent experience of Capt. Harvey G. Bintrim.

Recently Bintrim, as first lieutenant of Troop F, went to the 76th Field Artillery armory in Pittsburgh to take an examination for the rank of captain before a board composed of Capt. Savage, army cavalry instructor, and Col. Island of the medical reserve. Two other first lieutenants were there for the quiz. One was Elmer J. Voltz a lieutenant in the 107th Field Artillery, National Guard of Pittsburgh, who said goodbye to Bintrim in May, 1919.

Voltz and the local troop command, he served abroad in France and in Camp Hancock, Abroad, met with the service battery of the 107th Field Artillery.

The third who applied for new rank was Karl W. Curtin of the 176th Field Artillery, National Guard. The trio successfully passed the required standards and received their commissions.

Jury Selection In Erie Murder Case Progressing Slowly

Charles J. Margiotti Granted Request For Separate Trial For Three Alleged Slayers

(International News Service) ERIE, Pa., Sept. 16.—Questioning of prospective jurors was resumed today in the trial of Nick Carlucci, alleged Ohio gangster, charged with murder of Tony Ruberto.

When court adjourned yesterday one juror had been selected for the session had been consumed in the questioning and challenging of nineteen others.

Eugene Zapatelli and Fedore Bartone, held on the same charge, were granted separate trials by the court yesterday upon request of Charles J. Margiotti, counsel for defense. Police charges that Carlucci was "taken for a ride" because he talked too much of the gang's activities, after he had quit the band and its activities. His body was found with seven bullet wounds in the head.

The case is being heard before Judge Joseph Bouton of McKean county.

Next Saturday evening the members of the Star of Wales lodge will hold their meeting at the Emmanuel Baptist church. The session will commence at 7:30 in the evening when a large crowd of members are expected to be present.

Brother Joseph Leyde will fill his office as president of the lodge and Brother Daniel Hughes will fill the vice president's chair. Other brothers will fill their different offices. New and old business matters will be transacted and a great benefit will be to each and every one in the lodge.

Rev. D. Cynn Evans of Plymouth, Pa., occupied the pulpit of the Emmanuel Baptist church on last Sunday and according to arrangements will be here for the whole week and preach again next Sunday. He is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brinley Hughes on Cunningham avenue. His wonderful preaching was enjoyed last Sunday by the members and friends of the Emmanuel church. He is a man of knowledge and ability, having been graduated from the Cardiff National college of Wales.

He is a neighbor of Rev. W. Glynn Williams, former pastor of the First Congregational church here.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richards and their two boys turned their faces toward their home in California after spending a few months with friends and relatives here. Richard, one of the boys, returned home with a beautiful wife. He married Miss Davies, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Davies.

Tony Bell Will Take Stand In His Own Behalf

Alleged Slayer Of Late Constable John Donahoe Will Be Placed On Stand

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Tony Bell, former Masontown chief of police on trial for the murder of Constable John Donahoe, was expected to take the witness stand in his own defense today as his counsel continued to introduce testimony tracing the movements of Bell on the night of the murder.

At adjournment of the court late yesterday after several defense witnesses had testified to seeing Bell during the evening in support of his claim, Attorney H. S. Dumbauld announced that he had a number of witnesses yet to call and indicated that he might not complete testimony until Wednesday.

Special Prosecutor A. E. Jones will introduce several rebuttal witnesses, he indicated and it was believed today that the jury probably would not be given the case until Thursday or Friday.

Testimony of Mrs. Anna Darby, who testified Saturday that Bell had been at her home until almost midnight on the night of the murder, was corroborated by a parade of witness yesterday.

Hemphill Opens Campaign Today In Philadelphia

Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate Carries His Campaign Into Eastern City

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Carrying his campaign into Philadelphia, John M. Hemphill, Liberal-Democratic gubernatorial nominee, struck back at Gifford Pinchot, his Republican opponent in two rallies here, during the night and the Pike county Forester's professed interest in the Port of Philadelphia as "insincere."

He charged that when Pinchot was governor he failed to approve two bills for the development of the port. "What a man has been he is very likely to be again," Hemphill asserted. Sedgwick Kistler, the Democratic senatorial nominee, also spoke from the same platforms as Hemphill.

While Hemphill and Kistler were delivering their addresses Francis H. Bohlen, Jr., one of the chief supporters of the Liberal party in a radio address called upon all wets to be sure and register today at the second day for registration of voters. He also declared that "every man and woman in Pennsylvania who is opposed to the reign of misrule brought about through the 18th amendment enforcing laws owes it as a duty to good government to vote for John Hemphill for governor."

The boy got up himself and left without giving his name to Mr. Dickson. He was apparently uninjured.

Theodore Richards of 705 East Lutton street, reported that he was enroute east on Weaver street at the intersection of School street when his machine was in a collision with that of Frank Lemmon of 1813 Hamilton street, who was driving north on School street. Some damage was done to both machines.

26. Nathanael Greene—Morgan's Victory At Cowpens

DANIEL MORGAN, WITH 900 MEN OF GREENE'S ARMY, WAS HOLDING A POSITION ON A THINLY WOODED SLOPE AT COWPENS (S.C.) WHEN HE WAS ATTACKED BY COLONEL TARLETON, WITH 1,100 BRITISH TROOPS ON JANUARY 17, 1781. MORGAN'S STRATEGY WAS FLAWLESS IN DESIGN AND EXECUTION.

AT THE ONSET MORGAN HAD HIS MILITIA, WHICH HE HAD PLACED IN THE FRONT LINE, PRETEND TO RETREAT AROUND THE HILL AFTER FIRING TWO VOLLEYS. NOT SUSPECTING A TRICK, THE REDCOATS CAME ON EXULTANTLY. A LINE OF CONTINENTALS FURTHER UP THE SLOPE ALSO FEIGNED RETREAT. THE BRITISH PURSUED HOTLY.

SUDDENLY THE CONTINENTALS HALTED, TURNED AND POURED A DEADLY FIRE INTO THE REDCOATS, THROWING THEM INTO CONFUSION. AT THE SAME TIME THE MILITIA, HAVING MARCHED AROUND THE HILL, RE-APPEARED ON THE SCENE AND ATTACKED THE BRITISH ON THE LEFT FLANK, WHILE THE AMERICAN CAVALRY CHARGED THE RIGHT.

ASSAILED FIERCELY ON THREE SIDES, THE BRITISH LINES MELTED AWAY. TARLETON MANAGED TO ESCAPE WITH 270 DRAGOONS, BUT THE REST OF HIS COMMAND WAS KILLED OR CAPTURED. THE AMERICAN LOSSES WERE 12 KILLED AND 60 WOUNDED.

Yachts Ready To Race Again

American Yacht Enterprise Ready For Third Race With Shamrock V

AMERICAN BOAT IS SPEEDY ONE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—Solomon, with the graven run so characteristic of this most humorous of sports, international yacht racing was ready again this morning for a resumption of the empty ceremonial of a challenge from a challenger that obviously is outclassed in all save gallantry and honor. The occasion was to be the third race of the series between Enterprise, American defender, and Shamrock V, twice defeated invader from England. According to those whose authority to speak cannot be questioned, it also was to mark the beginning of the end of the series itself, at least insofar as America and England were concerned. The latter it seems, will not challenge again for a matter of many years and perhaps never. It has had enough of the affair, at least under the rules and conditions now in effect.

Will Try Again.
The last of the Shamrocks, an object for commemoration yesterday as it finished all of a mile and a quarter astern for the worst beating any Shamrock has ever taken in this event, will try again today and, failing then, will make its fourth and final gesture tomorrow or on Thursday. After that it will be free of this distressing obligation and so will its owner, the perennial Sir Thomas Lipton. For him, too, it will be the end.

His Shamrocks are to pass the seas they have graced with 31 years of fruitless challenging. Their passing will break the succession of British endeavor in the cup series, dating back to 1851. Few in England have the money necessary to sponsor a cup challenger and even fewer the desire to prolong a series which they believe to be a forlorn cause under current regulations. These they feel may not be actually unfair to the challenger but they are at least inimical to its best interests.

Obviously One-Sided.
Whether the cause, the result was two obviously one-sided races on Saturday and yesterday and unless racing luck runs very strongly with the challenger, this ought to be pretty much the outcome of today's program. This was to follow the pattern of Saturday's premiere of the windward-and-leeward course, with an ever decreasing convoy of ocean craft in the background. The latter numbered many hundreds on Saturday, only a few hundreds yesterday and will be down in the dozens, if the series lasts long enough. Its interest was snuffed out by what transpired over the weekend.

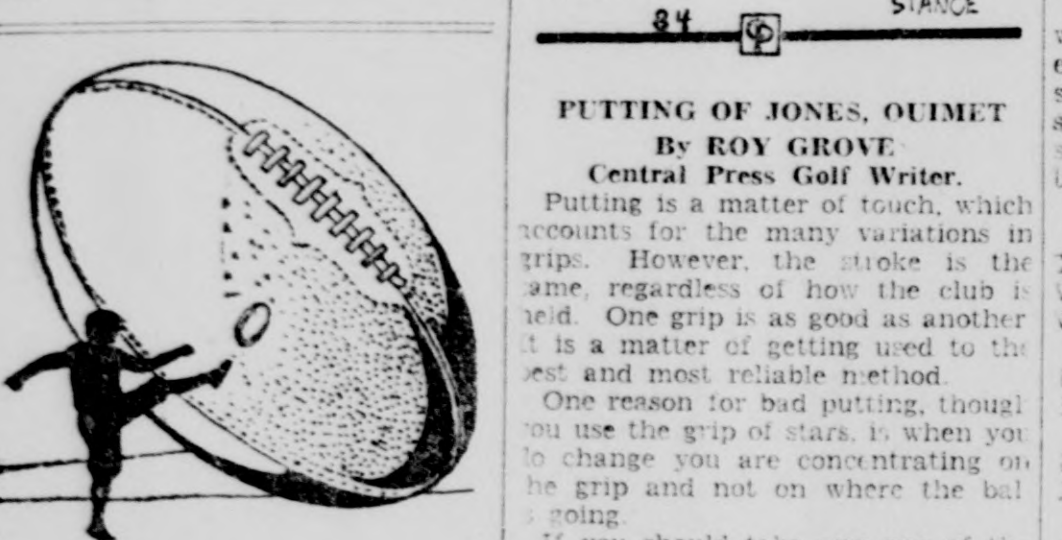

This proved that the Shamrock had neither the speed nor the equipment of the defender and the fact that regulations call for the boats to prove this all over again every day until one of them has won four times naturally doesn't excite the populace unduly. They feel, too, that there must be something very inequitable about a code that requires the challenger to be named so far in advance that nobody knows what it can do in a race, while the defender is named only after it has proved its quality.

At that, the Shamrock has had only moderate seas and light airs for these races, so the fact that this morning showed a very "dirty" sky line might mean something very significant or nothing at all.

Shenango Training For Slippery Rock

East New Castle Eleven Will Play Slippery Rock On Saturday, September 27

The Shenango high school griders are training hard on their new gridiron in preparation for Saturday September 27, when the East New Castle eleven will meet Slippery Rock. Coach G. W. Johnston with two weeks left before the game feels that he will have his varsity eleven selected and in the peak of condition.

The coach this year is facing a difficult task in picking out 11 men to represent that school out to eight terms being lost last season. Only two remain from last season's team. On Saturday the game against the Alumni gave the coach an opportunity to see the week spots and started on Monday to smooth them out.

The prospects this season who look like varsity men are: Booher, end; Hoover, tackle; J. Craig, guard; McConahy, center; Dambroschi, tackle; Weir, end; Marshall, quarterback; Kelly, halfback; Arnold, halfback; and Seech, fullback.

The game with Slippery Rock will be the second played since the new field has been laid out and the first with another school.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

PUTTING OF JONES, OUMMET

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer.

Putting is a matter of touch, which accounts for the many variations in grips. However, the stroke is the same, regardless of how the club is held. One grip is as good as another if it is a matter of getting under the ball and making the ball go.

One reason for bad putting, though, is the use of the grip of stars, is when you change you are concentrating on the grip and not on where the ball is going.

If you should take any one of the grips used by the stars and concentrate on the ball going into the cup, you would immediately adopt the grip upon sinking the putt.

Putting is a matter of the mind controlling the club is telegraphic through the hands.

The best control of the putt is through the right hand. That is, it is the reverse to the other clubs in the bag where the left does the work, and the first place, is confusing to the average golfer.

Many years ago a great putter came to be known; he was Francis Oummet. Today he is forgotten and we have Jones. But Jones, the putter, is more a replica of the great Oummet than will note in the illustrations that the two are identical in their putting and the controlling factor is the right hand. In this case, the right hand grips the club and the left forefinger wraps the little finger of the right hand. That is the reverse of the grip taken on the rest of the clubs.

A SAD, SAD STORY

Cardinals Will Extend Dodgers

St. Louis Cardinals Will Test Brooklyn In Coming Series For Flag

CHICAGO CUBS ARE SLIPPING

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—While everyone is standing on roofs telling about this great Brooklyn ball club, if you don't mind we will take you by the hand today and dash a little cold water all around. In fact, while the Cardinals may not win the National League pennant, we rather like them for the series with Brooklyn, and it looks as though the Cardinals will have to play better ball to defeat the Cardinals than they did yesterday, even though they lowered away the spineless Reds, 13 to 5. It was the Robins' eleventh straight win, and the Reds' eleventh straight loss, the latter near-record giving the idea that maybe the Robins were not any better than the Reds were bad.

Pull Two Boners.
For our first pull of water we will use Glenn Wright's homer that did not count. The Robin captain hit a long one into the left center bleachers. Herman stopped and watched the ball, while Wright ran right past him and was called out for doing just that. Pull No. 2 dashes all over a play in which Hank Hendrick ran back and touched third after Herman hit a single. Hendrick thinking the liner had been caught, Hendrick actually ran home then from third and scored while the Reds slept on so peacefully, but he hardly could have done that against the Cardinals.

Lefty O'Doul homered in the opener and the Phillies beat out Chicago, 12 to 11, but the Cubs snatched the finale, 6 to 4, with Bush spacing the Phil's nine clouts. Hack Wilson homered No. 50.

Fitzsimmons gave the Pirates only three singles and the Giants trimmed the Pirates, 6 to 1.

Senators Win.
Jones and Burke, Washington pitchers, were not much but an improvement over four tried by the White Sox and the Senators eked out a victory, 14 to 9.

Goslin whacked out a four-baser to win for the Browns over Boston, 3 to 1, but the ruddy Sox bagged the tea tilt in the eleventh when Oliver scored on Bue's wild throw. The score was 2 to 1.

Babe Ruth hit thrice, once for a near homer, the Yankees humbling Detroit, 5 to 3.

Other clubs were not scheduled.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Before they throw them away the wood in those million dollar yachts eliminated by the Enterprise might be salvaged and used to build a grandstand in Washington for that world series that was going to be held there this year.

Mathematical Possibilities.

Two plus eleven and six times ten! With paper pencil and fountain pen with floundering brain and haggard face.

The lads are doing that N. L. race. Study and worry the whole night through.

Ten times six and eleven plus two! The answer at last! But what's that roar?

Jack's hit a homer and changed the score!

Polo is no longer a rich man's game—Tommy Hitchcock. That's right anybody can play who has two dozen ponies and the time to ride them.

Among other eclipses entirely visible to the naked eye is that one of us Shires.

Babe Ruth picked his all-American baseball nine and then immediately opened his tie and sock establishment he probably expected to have him customers right off the bat.

Moren Mike no longer is superstitious. He's cured now that in British polo four was soundly beaten though they played both games on horsehoes.

If polo becomes a professional sport, winning ponies ought to get 6 per cent of the oats.

McLaughry Starts Another Year As Coach At Brown

Outlook For Strong Team At Brown This Year Is Good; Wealth Of New Material

BIG GREEN PREPS FOR GRID WARS

Tuss McLaughry, former Westminster college star, and now Head Coach at Brown, has started another season of the grid sport, and from all indications the former Mercer and Westminster man is going to turn out another fine team.

The following article from Providence Rhode Island tells how the squad shapes up—

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 16.—Prospects of another strong Brown University eleven was apparent as a wealth of new backfield and line material reported to Coach Tuss McLaughry at the preliminary football sessions at Aldrich Field.

The addition of Frank Curil, Lee Marshall, Lawrence Battistini, Robert Chase and Al Dall'Ava to the veteran varsity backfield—Captain Ling Fogarty, Bucky Harris, Dave Edes and Andy Rottell, the majority of whom are well passing end of the game, shows the dearth of backfield material available.

In the line candidates are the Skinner brothers, Ted Anderson, Ken Hann, R. K. Brown, R. D. Richardson and John Ferabee, all lettermen and are sure to win places in the forward line.

Bill Gilbane, Red McKeown, Joe Thompson, Capt. Fogarty, Bob Chase Ed Gilmartin and E. Damarjian are working hard in the kicking department and capable of getting good distance and height in their punts.

Aiding Head Coach Tuss McLaughry are coaches Stanley Towle, Bond and Staff, who are working hard daily with the candidates.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

John I. Reiser, Brooklyn, is dead. He passed away in a hospital there yesterday from an infection caused by an ingrown hair on a finger.

To many the name may not recall fistic incidents of years ago but when it is recalled he was known as John the Barber, it changes the situation.

John the Barber managed Jack Dempsey before he became champion. If recollection serves correctly he first introduced Dempsey in the east.

Dempsey fought John Lester Johnson, a big colored boy. Later on Reiser seen Dempsey become the greatest drawing card in the world.

Bob Huffman, hurler of Midland, Pa., has been signed by Wichita in the Western league. He has been pitching for the Pittsburgh Cruesies.

President Hoover has accepted an invitation to attend the opening of the world series in Philadelphia, October 1.

Enterprise defeated Shamrock V the second time yesterday and must win twice more to retain the trophy Sir Thomas Lipton wants.

The Harry Kid Brown-Baby Joe Gans fight at Pittsburgh has been postponed until Wednesday night.

Brown showed up with several boils and he was ruled out and Young Saylor may take his place.

Gans should not have any trouble beating either of them.

Nick Cutlip, Minneapolis pitcher, has been bought by Cincinnati. He has been ordered to report immediately.

Perrin Showing Up Well On Blue And White Squad

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. Sept. 16.—"Jimmy" Perrin, former Avella high school captain and fullback is showing up well on Coach "Dike" Beebe's Westminster College grid squad in pre-season drills.

Perrin entered Westminster last year and played at halfback in a number of games. He has been used at both half and full in scrimmage sessions during the last two weeks.

Perrin's father was an old Pitt star, so "Jimmy" comes by his ability naturally enough. While not quite heavy enough for the fullback post, he makes up with speed and fight what he lacks in weight. Perrin should see service for the Titans in a number of contests this fall.

No Scrimmage On Monday Night At Taggart Field

GOAL POSTS UP; LIGHTS ARE READY

Calisthenics, signal drills, and dummy scrimmages to polish up on execution of plays constituted the workout for the New Castle High School football on Monday at Taggart Field in preparation for Friday night when the local red and black eleven opens the grid season by playing Coraopolis High at Taggart Field. Coach Bridenbaugh will probably send the boys through a scrimmage this afternoon.

The griders first punted and passed the ball to one another then they were given exercises by William L. Klee assistant coach. Signal drills followed this after which Coach Bridenbaugh spent the huskies dummy scrimmage. This is scrimmaging with the exception that the griders do not tackle.

The purpose of this kind of scrimmage is to polish up on execution of plays. In this way Coach Bridenbaugh is able to see if the griders are doing the right thing in every play. With today, Wednesday and Thursday left to practice, the coach will likely send the pusskin catchers through their hardest workouts so far.

The final workout in preparation for the opening game will be held either Thursday afternoon or Thursday night to get the boys accustomed to the lights. So far the griders appear to be getting in good shape in preparation for the Coraopolis game.

Coraopolis High forecasts report that the visitors will also be in the peak for this game. The visitors have been training for the past month for this encounter.

On Tuesday the floodlights were removed from the poles to be adjusted and cleaned. The field has been arranged for the game. The goal posts have been put up and the bleachers have also been erected.

Tickets for this game can be purchased at the Sporting Goods store.

Huber Elected As Faculty Manager Of Ellwood High

Ellwood City High's Grid Schedule Has Open Date For September 27

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 16.—Another step toward the preparing of the 1930 grid activities of the Ellwood City high school took place when Perry L. Huber, was elected Faculty Manager. He is replacing Ralph Shaffer who resigned recently.

Mr. Huber's first big job will be to schedule a game for September 27 as Ellwood has that as an open date. Several negotiations are under way but as yet no contest has been secured for this date. If no school is booked there are plans under way to have the Alumni clash with the blue and white.

Many former grid stars are eagerly awaiting to give this battle and hope that plans will be arranged for it. A contest of this type will enable Coach Ingles new eleven to get some experience and if a game is not scheduled there is no doubt that an Alumni and E. C. H. P. contest will take place.

Ingles is holding the daily sessions and is working the lads at a rapid pace and whipping them into shape. One of his assistants, Todd Lloyd was laid up for several days last week due to a severe cold but is again in action. He and Ralston are busily engaged in helping Ingles build the 1930 blue and white machine.

A scrimmage was held on Friday and all the boys were given a chance to see action and will get plenty of it in the next two weeks.

Local fans will see a host of new faces on this year's team as only one veteran remains from last season's eleven. He is Sam Neff, an end man.

Grace-Eaton In Spotlight Roles At Merger Suit

Word Of Eugene Grace Pitted Against Cyrus S. Eaton In Youngstown Suit

EATON DENIES HE MADE STATEMENT

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 16.—The word of Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, today was pitted against the word of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, in the common pleas court records here of the trial of the injunction suit against the merger of Bethlehem with Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

Grace, who was unexpectedly recalled to the stand as a defense witness yesterday, openly contradicted Eaton's previous testimony as to his attitude regarding the merger of the two concerns when it was explained to him at a meeting in Cleveland on March 11.

Statement Denied
Grace declared that Eaton had expressed himself as "unalterably opposed" to the merger transaction—a statement which Eaton has denied he made. The Bethlehem executive also charged that Eaton had declared he "had other plans for Sheet and Tube"—another statement which Eaton has denied he made.

Asked by F. H. Wood, Bethlehem attorney, if he had heard Campbell say, as Eaton quoted him, that the merger negotiations "were started by Mr. Dalton (Henry G. Dalton, a director in both Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem), and Mr. Grace," the Bethlehem executive declared that he did not hear it and that he would swear that Campbell "did not in words or in substance make any such statement."

Several other lesser important details of Eaton's previous testimony which was read in court by Wood were also contradicted by the Bethlehem president.

New York Primary Today Features Wet-Dry Battle

Republican Contests With Prohibition Leading Factor Holds Primary Spotlight

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Republican contests in up-state New York with prohibition a leading feature stood as the highlights in today's state primary election. The wet and dry battle included three for delegates to the Republican state convention and six contests for the Republican congressional nominations.

The delegate fights are in Westchester, Herkimer and Montgomery counties. Among the Democrats there are few up state contests and in the city the interest centered chiefly in local leadership struggles.

In New York city there are 56 contests of which half are for members of the Democratic and Republican state committees and half for party nominations. The Republicans have 15 state committee contests and 13 Democratic.

The twenty-fifth district, made up of a part of Westchester and Rockland counties, and the fortieth district, a part of Erie and Niagara county, provide the outstanding battles for Republican congressional nominations. In these contests prohibition is an issue.

It is understood neither the Fascists nor Nationalists are willing to assume the reins of government at present, fearing winter distress will cause disillusion among their followers. Chancellor Bruening cancelled his vacation in order to be on hand to line up parliamentary support in time for the Reichstag convocation.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 16.—Devoid of remorse over her strange act, Mrs. Ruth Weimer, 38, today sat in her county jail cell, awaiting the law's next move on Friday when she will be arraigned on charges of murdering her 41-year-old sister, Mrs. Bale Agnes Steele.

Mrs. Weimer calmly explained why she sent three fatal bullets crashing through her sister's body. "She was weeping and said she wished she were dead. So did I," Mrs. Weimer said. "I thought my sister would be better off dead, and that I would be, too. There are a lot of things worse than death."

Mrs. Steele's grief was caused by the long absence of two of her children, who were kidnapped by their father.

Connecticut G. O. P. Selecting Slate For November Elections

Convention Harmonious As Senator Walcott Assumes Position As Chairman

(International News Service)
HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 16.—To the key-note sounded by United States Senator Frederick C. Walcott, of Norfolk, the Republican state convention today settled into the task of nominating a slate to contest the November elections. The convention was harmonious and as Senator Walcott, proceeding from keynote to chairman, opening the session in Foot Guard Armory, not a cloud appeared on the horizon, and the ticket appeared in prospect of being nominated without roll call vote.

The only possible point of difference was that which might occur between the wet and dry wings of the party, each of which has been urging the resolutions committee to put a strong plank in the party platform. But Senator Walcott's keynote speech, delivered last evening before an enthusiastic audience, seemed to indicate the dry wing had less chance than its opponent section.

ANOTHER APPRECIATION
Sept. 13, 1930.

Hon. Fred L. Rentz, President of The News Co. New Castle, Penna.

Friend Fred—I intended to call and see you today and congratulate you but time went by before I got around.

I want you to know how much I appreciate having an independent paper in our town, in this day of merging, when chain concerns own nearly everything. I hope that New Castle may always have an independent paper. I am proud of the independent minds we have in our country. It is my privilege to peruse papers in many parts of the State and I do not mean flattery when I say I do not find the equal of The New Castle News.

I join with your hosts of friends in congratulating you on Golden Anniversary, and wish you continued success.

Sometimes I do not agree with you, but that does not matter as difference of opinions is no crime, and only by difference of opinions is progress towards the truth obtained.

Hoping that you will boost Pinchot for governor and that we may all enjoy and help you celebrate Your Diamond Anniversary, I am,

Respectfully Yours,
J. A. Boak.
